President Truman Gets Telephone Strike Delay, Illinois Mines Running

A nation-wide telephone strike scheduled for last Friday was postponed for 60 days at the request of President Truman.

President Truman asked that service remain uninterrupted while bargaining work goes on over present wage, hour, and other conditions.

President Joseph A. Beirne of the CIO Communication Workers union, said the union recognized its obligation to the "public interest and welfare," and would "bargain every day 24 hours a day during the period in seeking settlement."

The coal strike situation improved when Illinois Progressive Mine union men went back to work Wednesday on a continuation of their contract. This is expected to ease the shortage of coal in Illinois.

John L. Lewis and his miners were on trial yesterday on charge of contempt of court in failing to end their strike and return to work. Lewis held that the men were refusing to return to work as individuals and not as a group.

Rent Office Gives Figures on Business In First Month of '50

In the first month of the new year, the Waukegan Rent Office has issued orders approving 259 rent increases on the petitions of landlords seeking adjustments under the liberalized adjustment provisions of the federal rent law and regulation.

J. Edwin Porter, Associate Rent Director said increase orders were issued during January on 93 per cent of the petitions processed. The rent officer processed 139 petitions, issuing increase orders on 132. These orders affect 259 dwelling units, which altogether get a monthly increase of $2926.40, or an average of $11.30 a month increase per unit.

As services to tenants, the rent official pointed out that the rent office is authorized to take emergency action in the case of tenant-reported lockouts and shutoffs of heat, light, water and gas, and that court injunction may be resorted to if voluntary compliance with the law by the landlord is not forthcoming. He referred also to the office's authority to take court action on reports of rental bonus payments and furniture tie-in rentals.

In connection with rent increases petitioned for, the rent official said that landlords must certify that they are keeping up services to which the tenant is entitled, and that the rent office has a policy of denying increases when a substantial registered service has been eliminated.

Priced Out Of The Market

Marquis Childs, a columnist of liberal views who has often taken the side of labor in industrial controversies, recently discussed some important long-term aspects of John L. Lewis' policies as they affect the soft coal industry, the miners, and the public. In part, he said, "The demands that Lewis has been able to enforce because of his monopolistic hold have created a distortion with serious implications for the whole economy. It has contributed to price rises that have steadily pushed up the whole price level. As a result many Americans—in agriculture and outside the unionized industries—are being priced out of the market. . . .

"If enough people are priced out of the market, it will be quickly felt in a lessening demand for consumer goods. Even a mild depression would be likely to play havoc with the welfare system that Lewis has got out of the coal industry; a system that has little relation to actual soundness."

The foregoing is the big point, regardless of what happens in any particular strike or shut-down or dispute. The miners, naturally, want the best contract possible, the highest wages, the shortest hours, the pension benefits and all the rest. But what good would these things do them if the market for coal steadily dwindled, because the price to the consumer was too high and, consequently, there were fewer and fewer jobs?

Any group—whether it be a labor union or an industry—which tries to force extreme demands, regardless of the effect on the rest of the nation, is riding toward destruction.

Drugs From Animals

A short time ago the American Meat Institute, which represents a large number of the nation's meat packers, urged that its members save increased quantities of cattle gall. This gall is the source of a new drug called cortisone which has, in some cases, effected spectacular relief in persons suffering with arthritis. Gall from nearly 100 cattle is needed to produce enough cortisone for but a single week's treatment for the average patient.

The drug is still in the research stage, with the medical profession seeking to find ways to prolong the dosage effect, and to establish factual data on secondary side effects and possible toxicity. However, research is being hampered by the fact that too small a quantity of the drug is now available—there has not been enough for repeated and prolonged dosage for even a moderate number of people. This situation led to the Institute's request to its members to save all the cattle gall possible.

A great amount of processing is necessary to produce cortisone. One packing company, which is working closely with a leading medical clinic, must carry out 32 different procedures before the raw gall is reduced to the powdered acid form from which cortisone is extracted. A hundred pounds of raw gall produced only eight-tenths of a pound of acid—of which but one per cent is cortisone.

By-products of the meat packing industry have long been the source of various medicines, of which insulin, the only drug yet discovered that will control diabetes, is the best known. Cortisone may be an equal boon to those afflicted with arthritis.

The Low Down From Hickory Grove

Congressmen and fellow citizens, hear ye! This seminar is to be devoted to the selfish interests and desires of the average congressman—but it will be okay for a voter to listen-in too, if he chooses.

I have researched deep and I have the answer on "how to get elected or re-elected—sure fire." So listen—you jittery ones who are voting "yes" on every hand-out bill introduced—you scaredy persons who shiver when you hear a noise in the weeds, fearful it is a vote getting away from you.

Boys, here is how it is—and keep in mind I am not mad at any of you, I just sometimes feel sorry, some of you have a little to learn yet, but your heart is in the right place. When you sit down at home with the sweet little woman and dope out how you are to manage your private exchequer in the coming year—how you will trim expenses if you are ever to get the interest payments reduced on the mortgage, you use gumption. You and the little woman decide you will pull in the belt.

So boys, just be yourselves there away from home—use home economics on Govt. affairs. And if it looks like Sambo can't make both ends meet on his colossal 42 billion budget, it is up to you to lower the boom. If you do so, all the king's horses and all the king's men cannot prevent you finishing as top man, as the frost settles on the pumpkin—come autumn.

Yours with the low down,
JO SERRA

Another car had also skidded and was also involved, but no one else was injured except Mr. and Mrs. Weber. Headache "Cures"

Among the "magical" cures for headache, a frequent sympton of poor eyesight, were: the binding around the head of a snakeskin or a rope by which a man had been hanged; the grasping in the hand of scraped horse-radish, and the snuffing of powder made from dried moss found growing on a human skull.

An ad on USEFULNESS

Friend of ours was telling us about one of the most useful devices in the world.

"It works 24 hours a day for me," he said. "And never yet has let me down when I needed it most.

"Fact is, I use it to run all kinds of errands, carry messages to and from a steadily growing number of people, get help in emergencies, make friends and lots of other things. It saves me time, worry and money.

"Costs only a few nickels a day, too," he added.

"Must be a newfangled robot," we scoffed.

"No," he said. "You have one yourself — your telephone."

When you stop to think about it, few things are more useful than your telephone. Few things do so much for so little.

Farm Bureau Reports 1,800 Membership at Annual Meet Feb. 18

The Lake County Farm Bureau celebrated its 35th anniversary with a record membership of 1,800 families, it was reported at the annual meeting held recently at the Warren Township High school, Gurnee.

Four hundred persons, the largest number ever to attend the annual meeting braved icy roads to be present and hear the annual reports. It was an all-family affair and 85 children were entertained at a separate party in which movies were shown and refreshments served.

All six directors whose terms expired this year were re-elected. They are John Stiehr, Raymond Flood, Ronald Paddock, Raymond Doetz, Walter Sage and Henry Knigge.

V. S. Peterson, midwest manager of the extension division of DuPont company's public relations department, spoke on "Progress in Better Living."

Reports Given

Nicholas said that extension work in Illinois is 33 years old and stands by to help the farmer improve farming conditions.

President Ronald Paddock said the Farm bureau is 35 years old. "It can safely be said that in the 35 years there has never been a single movement for the betterment of farm people in Lake county in which the Farm bureau was not identified," said Paddock.

Reports were made by L. A. Huebsch, treasurer for 25 years; Bertram Abney, general agent of the IAA insurance groups; Marvin J. Carlson, organization director; Mrs. Helen Volk, home adviser, who brought greetings from the Home bureau; A. D. Smith, representative of the Lake-Cook Farm Supply Co.; and Secretary Avery Vose, who said the organization is in good financial condition.

Preparations Made for 1950 Decennial Census To Start on April 10

Frank Kilbane, Supervisor, Calls for Employes as Enumerators

Frank Kilbane, District Supervisor of the 1950 Federal Census in the Thirteenth Congressional District, has opened the district headquarters in the Waukegan post office.

The Seventeenth Decennial Census will be one of the greatest peace-time operations of the Federal Government and will involve the employment of 140,000 numerators and 8,300 crew leaders.

Kilbane will have charge of the 320 persons who will be employed for the field operation in Lake County and the northern part of Cook County. The actual count will begin on April 10.

Applications are now being taken for the work of enumerators, who will be expected to call on 33 dwellings daily. They will receive 7 cents a house and 7 cents for each person living there. On this piece-price basis, they will receive an estimate of $10.50 per day, according to Mr. Kilbane.

The general requirements for an enumerator are that he be a citizen of the United States, have a high school education, and be able to write legibly, handle simple arithmetic and talk easily with people. Applications giving the address of the applicant, may be sent to Mr. Kilbane at the Waukegan Postoffice.

Applicants will be notified when and where to appear for an interview and appointments will be made on the basis of ability to pass successfully an examination prepared by the Bureau of Census, according to Mr. Kilbane. After the appointment they will be trained.

Questions are Varied

The basis question on housing, population and employment are varied and all have a purpose for later use by the Bureau, he explained. Each person Fourteen years and older will be asked about his employment status during the previous week, and every fifth person will be questioned concerning his educational background, the number of weeks he worked in 1949, his 1949 income and his status as a veteran. Every 30th person will be asked to furnish information as to whether he has been married more than once and the number years he has been married to his present spouse.

The questionaires provide for extensive information about the structural details and facilities of each dwelling unit. Agricultural questions include such information as the value of the farm and the mortgage indebtedness.

May Mail Answers

"For any of the skeptics who may feel that his or her privacy is being unduly invaded," Mr. Kilbane continued, "it is to be noted that, although the law provides that questions must be answered, it also provides that the information given to the Bureau is in the strictest confidence and that the Bureau cannot disclose it to any person, firm or corporation, or any other department of the Government. If a person objects to giving any financial information to the Enumerator, he may put the information on a card furnished by the Enumerator, and mail it himself directly to Washington."

Kilbane is beng assisted by John Warren Giles, Evanston Attorney, as Assistant District Supervisor.

Deadlines Announced for Bonus Payments in Other States for War Veterans

Veterans living in Illinois who are eligible for bonus payments from other states were cautioned today by the Illinois Veterans Commission to watch the deadlines for filing applications.

It is already too late to make application for the bonus from the states of Louisiana and Rhode Island. Three more will expire by July of this year.

With the exception of the state of Iowa, the 16 states now paying a bonus, along with the territories of Alaska and Hawaii, have furnished the IVC with application blanks.

The 16 now paying a bonus, together with deadlines are: Connecticut, June 30, 1951; Delaware, Jan. 1, 1951; Illinois, June 30, 1951; Indiana, Jan. 1, 1951; Iowa, no deadline; Massachusetts, no deadline;, Michigan, March 20, 1951; Minnesota, no deadline; New Hampshire, no deadline; New York, no deadline; North Dakota, Feb. 17, 1954; Vermont, no deadline; and Washington, no deadline. The territories of Alaska and Hawaii have no deadlines.

Three states having a deadline this year are: Ohio, June 30, 1950; Pennsylvania, July 1, 1950; and So. Dakota, June 30, 1950.

Service officers of the IVC are ready to assist veterans in making proper application or furnishing information relative to bonus legislation.

In Lake county veterans can receive assistance at the IVC office located at Legion Home in Waukegan.

Conservation School On Fox Lake Will Be Busy Place in Summer

The state conservation school at Lake Villa this summer will be the scene of an intensive conservation training program for high school superintendents, teachers and students.

This was revealed today by State Conservation Director Leonard Schwartz in a press release from Springfield in which he pledged "the best hunting and fishing possible for the sportsmen of Illinois" in 1950.

In connection with the Lake Villa training project, Schwartz concluded that "an educated public is a must in the long range planning for the conservation of the natural resources of Illinois. This education," he added, "must start with the training of teachers as well as youngsters."

Schwartz revealed that many of the conservation department's former methods and practices will be changed. One of the changes will affect the state's fish stock program.

The director said a survey by department experts and the Illinois Natural History survey of 45 artificial lakes and ponds revealed that all were filled with stunted fish.

The new program, he said, will prohibit the stocking of overpopulated waters and the removal of stunted fish which will be replaced with desirable specimens.

He said public shooting areas throughout the state will be managed in 1950 along similar lines as in 1949, adding that it is hoped that the capacity of these can be expanded by acquisition of additional lands.

Reforestation and wildlife habitat plantings will continue to be carried on, he promised, through distribution of tree seedlings and multiflora rose. He said his engineering staff would also be available to those interested in farm pond planting.

He asserted in conclusion that law enforcement in 1950 will be carried on along the same stepped up program it was last year.

Paint Procedure

When coating a room, the ceiling should be painted first - going across the short way of the room. In painting walls, you start in an upper corner and work downward. Flat paints are applied with semi-circular strokes. Varnish and enamel are flowed on with even strokes. Remember that rooms to be painted should be well lighted and well ventilated. Also that good brushes are as important as good paint and should be carefully handled and well cared for.

Earl Sets Up Roadside Mart To Save Estate

LONDON.—The traveler or motorist passing Stafford may stop at the roadside and buy apples and cabbages grown by the premier earl of England and Ireland.

Not exactly from his lordship, of course, but certainly from the fields owned and managed by the 34-year old Earl of Shrewsbury and Waterford. The earl lives in stately Ingestre Hall and is known locally as the "tilled Barrow boy."

The vegetable stand is not a pose or a stunt. The roadside enterprise, the earl explains, is just a commonsense effort to help save what is left of the premier earldom of the realm. It was created in 1442, and while it is not the oldest earldom in the land, it is the first in prestige protocol.

Cash Running Out

Under a Socialist administration and in an age in which the rural landlord is fast running out of ready cash, desperate measures were called for to preserve at least the heart of the old estate.

There was a good deal to save and the earl, passing out farm produce, is by no means a pauper—he's just land poor. One measure was the sale of a third of the 6,000 acre estate; another was the roadside vegetable stand. The earl formerly sold produce and game to dealers and restaurants. He decided to reduce prices to the ultimate consumer and increase his own earnings by cutting out the middleman.

He now dreams of setting up a string of stands and shops to be provisioned by the thousands of acres still under his control.

He is equally proud of the sign on the vegetable stand which informs the passer that the 21st earl of Shrewsbury and Waterford is "licensed to deal in game." Such licenses are difficult to get, but the earl has his. Some of the games for sale is shot by the earl himself in the woods and fields about Ingestre Hall.

The auction sale of about 2,000 acres, divided into 13 farms and numerous small plots, was a spectacular example of what is happening to Britain's aristocracy. It's not as cushy to be an earl as it was.

Kept Old Tenants

When the earl decided he had to retrench by selling some lands which had been in the family since the year 1170 he arranged, as far as possible, to have his old tenants buy the properties they occupied. The sale was necessary, said the auctioneer, because of the "merciless taxation" to which the land has been subjected. The sale realized about $414,000 under the old valuation of the British pound.

"That's pretty good," the earl remarked ruefully, but Sir Stafford Cripps (chancellor of the exchequer) will get most of it."

The former tenants, who are now just neighbors, are as proud of the premier earldom as the lord himself. They boast that the seventh earl of Shrewsbury won 40 battles in the 15th century wars against France, and that the 20th earl, granfather of the present holder of the title, deserves well of history because he got the bright idea of putting rubber tires on hansom cabs. London became a quieter town.

Scottish Writer Has Term For Modern Big-Word Usage

PERTH, SCOTLAND.—There is a word for all that fancy, modern, streamlined wordage you've been hearing and reading lately — it's "barnacular."

That's what author - journalist Ivor Brown calls it. And he says those "ten-dollar words" are clinging like parasitic barnacles to the vernacular, the plain, old language most people speak every day.

For instance, he points out that no one is ever "ill" nowadays—he is just "maladjusted." A "bad boy" is that no longer, he is a "juvenile delinquent."

"If a man calls food 'food,'" Brown went on, "he is branded as a simple fellow, but if he can write a memo about 'units of nutritional intake' he is regarded as indispensable and, most likely, gets a raise in pay."

Citing further examples, he observed that no one is ever "poor" anymore—he is "underprivileged."

"We have 'wonder girls,' 'glamour girls' and 'swim suits,'" he said, "and only 'blondes' appear in court. Brunettes either stay innocent outside or the color of their hair is never mentioned."

President Blames Ink Spot For Poor Room Acoustics

WASHINGTON. — Seldom irritable, the President was showing signs of it as he had to repeat himself several times at his regular news conference because reporters couldn't hear him.

But it wasn't his fault, he said. He blamed the poor acoustics on the fact that someone had spilled ink on his nice, inch-thick office rug and it was out being cleaned.

Bear in MIND

When you sit right down and think about it, there is no difference between shopping for insurance and shopping for a piece of meat. When you drop in on the butcher and ask for a pot roast, you do not expect to unwrap a porterhouse steak when you get home. You have paid for pot roast and that is what you get. Unfortunately for everyone, many people think that insurance is all porterhouse steak. That is why we want every one of our clients to know and to bear in mind what they ordered and paid for — insurance-wise. It certainly saves a lot of headaches when a loss or a claim comes along.

BLUE CROSS ENROLLMENT IN COUNTY CLOSES ON MARCH 4

Blue Cross membership for residents of Lake county is now available during a special re-enrollment which opened in the county on February 20 and will continue through March 4. Membership is being extended to many more residents of the county who are self-employed or work in groups of less than 5 persons. This opportunity to enroll in Blue Cross is being brought to the county under the sponsorship of the Lake County Health Improvement Association, which conducted the initial Blue Cross enrollment in the county a year ago.

Blue Cross Plan for Hospital Care provides its members with many outstanding hospital care benefits including anesthetics and their administration by technically trained hospital personnel. The use of anesthetics in today's modern hospitals has contributed greatly to the relief of pain and suffering during operations.

Varnish is widely used on furniture, floors and woodwork to protect the surface and give it a smooth, glossy finish yet permit the grain of the wood to show through. Varnish is also one of the principal industrial finishes.

Shed Their Horns

Deer shed their horns and grow new ones every year. In this strange process a section of the main antlers close to the head becomes weak and brittle, finally breaking off. The new horns rapidly grow out of the stumps.

Raincoat Hood

One way of preventing the hood of your plastic raincoat from blowing off in blustery rainy weather is to take a tip from the girl who fastens the edge of her hood to her forehead with a strip of transparent cellophane tape. It stays put in a high wind and the tape is invisible.
